In this newsletter, Carolyn Gamble shares with us a remembrance of the late Norma Hoffman, who was instrumental in both the acquisition of Historic Huntley and establishing the Friends of Historic Huntley (FOHH).

She recalls Norma’s humanity towards others and her commanding presence. While bricks and mortar and viewseshed are our first thoughts of Huntley, we should always also remember the community both brought together by and standing behind Huntley, as exemplified by Norma. People build parks and parks build and enhance communities of people around and drawn to them.

In an era when phones are given more facetime than friends in the flesh, much of life is “lived” online. As artificial intelligence promises to assume many occupational roles, communities of real people in real places (i.e., parks) will become ever more important.

I invite you to step up your role in the Huntley human community. Join FOHH if you haven’t already. If you already are a member, become more active as a tour greeter, docent, activities planner, camp chaperone. Or just attend one of the many upcoming programs at Huntley. Reaching out to and joining with others is how Norma succeeded in saving Huntley and establishing FOHH. And it’s the best way to preserve these organizations, as well as our humanity and communities in the digital era.

So many wonderful adjectives have been assigned to Norma. Let’s just say only one “Norma Hoffman” comes along in a lifetime. I figured that out soon after meeting her in 1983, when I was a Huntley Meadows Park naturalist. That’s when Norma signed up to be a volunteer at Huntley Meadows Park. Of course I already knew of her, because of her opposition to the road through Huntley Meadows Park. I had heard Fairfax County officials describe her with adjectives that were strikingly different from the ones listed above! I actually was kind of afraid to meet her. But after one meeting I knew Norma was the one in the “white hat.” She has been my hero ever since.

Norma started speaking to county officials about Historic Huntley in the 1980’s. She repeatedly brought up her concerns about deterioration and encouraged the county to purchase the property. I have no doubt that her lobbying efforts, particularly with Supervisor Kauffman, played a major role in the county finally finding funds to purchase the house in 1989.

And she didn’t stop there. In 1990 she spearheaded the formation of Friends of Historic Huntley. She wrote the articles of incorporation and the bylaws. She served as vice president and later as treasurer. Norma served on the FOHH board for 27 years, the last four years in emeritus status.

Through the years she provided guidance to all the FOHH presidents on local government, procedures, recordkeeping, and the very important thank-you note. Many of us benefitted from her positive encouragement, cheering us on to do more than we thought we could.

The 19th-century “galvanists” took their electro-medical experiments to the extreme by proposing that electric shocks could revive the dead. Their macabre public experiment led them to became known as the “resurrectionists,” horrifying audiences and inspiring Mary Shelley’s Frankenstein. Howarth’s performance commemorates the bicentennial of Shelley’s haunting work, in which Dr. Victor Frankenstein employs electricity to create a new-age being from inanimate matter.

Historic Huntley Summer Intern: Michael Sullivan

My name is Michael Sullivan, and I served as the 2017 historic site interpretation intern. I am a rising sophomore at American University, currently pursuing a degree in history. I am working to better understand the people who lived at Historic Huntley, with a particular interest in the freshly renovated Tenant House and Slighter Smith.

Smith was one of the few Mason-era people who could genuinely and voluntarily call Huntley his home. He served as T.F. Mason’s year-round overseer, a white man in charge of managing Mason’s slaves. Overseers were accused of many things, including racism, cruelty, incompetence, and self-indulgence. Through my research, I’ve discovered that, at times, Smith conforms to these descriptions. At others, he exhibits marked departures from them. For example, he liberated his slaves through his last will and testament. I will be discussing my research on Slighter Smith at the upcoming October 7 program, Historic Discussions at Huntley: Tenant House Reveal! (see page 1).

Additionally, I will be adding new information to the docent manual and have been learning more about childhood education and development through my work with some of Huntley Meadows Park’s summer camps. I would like to thank the Friends of Historic Huntley for providing me with this opportunity.

FOHH’s ongoing sales of used books and CDs at the Huntley Meadows Park Visitor Center benefit Historic Huntley. Books focus on historic homes and architecture, local and regional history, and the Civil War. CD stock focuses on classical music and historical narratives. Most books are $2 or $3; CDs are $3, two for $5, or $2 each for three or more. To donate books or CDs, contact Todi Carnes at todicarnes@verizon.net.

Access Services Librarian Samantha Snyder, at Mount Vernon's Fred W. Smith National Library for the Study of George Washington, accepts two volumes from FOHH for accession into the collection. Used book sale items are screened for volumes of potential interest to Mount Vernon's Library. The donations were made in remembrance of the service of Betsy Mason (original occupant of Huntley) as a member of the Mount Vernon Ladies Association during the last year of her life and in honor of George Washington as a neighbor holding property immediately adjacent to Huntley's historical southern boundary.
FOHH as a Beneficiary
Have you thought of leaving something to FOHH in your will or part or all of the remains of a retirement account? While FOHH can accept small donations, the Fairfax County Park Foundation—www.fairfaxparkfoundation.org—is best-equipped to handle larger ones. It is a nonprofit dedicated to raising funds for and distributing them to the Fairfax County Park Authority, which owns Historic Huntley. To ensure your funds will only be used in support of Historic Huntley, have your estate planning attorney expressly include this limitation on the gift. For more information, contact Roberta “Bobbi” Longworth at roberta.longworth@fairfaxcounty.gov or 703.324.8581. As they say, “You can’t take it with you”—but you can leave a legacy to Historic Huntley through the Fairfax County Park Foundation.
